

ABSTRACT

An optical arrangement in the illumination beam path (1) of a microscope, in particular of a confocal laser microscope, is characterized, for optimum illumination while reducing losses of excitation light, by an illumination optical system (6), arranged in the illumination beam path (1), to modify the illumination diameter (7).